Aah! Aashna Was Here!

Aashna Patel with Raoul Juneja

Hip-Hop journalist Raoul Juneja (a.k.a. DeeJay Ra) showing appreciation for NBC "Extra" entertainment reporter Aashna Patel during her August 10th "YTV Reunion Party" at Toronto's Loose Moose nightclub. Celebrating her first trip home since moving to California three years ago, the surprise party was organized by Aashna's former YTV colleagues upon hearing about her whirlwind two-day visit to team up with fellow Canadian urban/ethnic personalities for Juneja's September "Metronome Canada" support campaign.

"Being behind one of our country's first MCA [now Universal Music] urban-styled projects, not to mention her title as the first Indian-Canadian artist to have a major label CD release, made Aashna's involvement extremely important to the success of this campaign," Juneja says. "I'd be surprised to find a young Canadian entertainment personality today who doesn't list Aashna as one of their earliest inspirations."
